Introduction to this collection

This collection of Maasai Proverbs from Social Media forums (especially Facebook) is the first fruit of my interest in social media and how it is being used to advance the cause of African cultures by Africans, Africanists and the entire humanity. I am in the process of collecting other proverbs from other Kenyan language groups, so far having collected some proverbs from the Luhya, Kikuyu, Kalenjin, Luo, Kamba and Meru languages. It is hoped at the end of these efforts, a good picture of how proverbs from Kenyan languages are used in the social media will emerge especially through a detailed study and analysis of these social media forums.

This effort of collecting and collating various Kenyan language proverbs from the social media has started with proverbs from the Maasai people. The Maasai are a Nilotc speaking people living in the great Rift Valley of Kenya and Tanzania. Traditionally they have been associated with keeping large herds of cattle, sheep and goats. They have been largely an independent people with varying interactions with various neighboring communities both in Kenya and in Tanzania. Their independence with little room from manipulation by external forces has been associated with their ability preserve their cultures and traditions to the present. Oral culture as encapsulated in their proverbs has been one way of preserving and perpetuating their cultures into the present times.

The Maasai people have also been adapting to new changes in society brought about by modern education and advances in technologies. The use of traditional art forms like proverbs alongside new technologies is what inspired the collection of these Maasai Maaai proverbs from the social media and the internet. By going through various pages, it has been very refreshing to see the compatibility of proverbs use with new technological advances in communication such as internet. Some selected Facebook pages from where many proverbs were collected include Maasai proverbs (indung'eta e rashe), <https://www.facebook.com/groups/100624011542/>; Maasai proverbs teachings, <https://www.facebook.com/groups/1399785203627037/>

The “Maasai Proverbs From Social Media” collection has benefitted from the efforts and support of the following people. I thank the Kenyan Proverbs Working Group especially father Joseph Healey and Cephas Agbemenu for their criticism and encouragement in the course of collecting the proverbs. I am also grateful to Julius Naikuni, my student friend who helped me with the translation of the Maasai proverbs into English.

A word on the organization and methodology of compilation of this collection: This collection is organized around a style in which the original proverb is rendered in the Maasai language is in bold and marked with the word (Maasai) in bracket at the end. A literal translation of the proverb is then done in English and appears in italics. A last rendering is a Swahili translation of the proverb in plain font but marked (Swahili) in bracket at the end.

As it emerged at the end of this exercise, only proverbs were collected and are presented in the pages that follow. But I am certain there are more proverbs that will continue to be posted as other social media groups of Maasai proverbs users emerge in the internet. Proverbs that start with the following 10 letters of the alphabet have found their way in this collection: A, E, I, K, M, N, O S T and U.

Thank you.
